VERNOR ALTGELD'S DEMAND

alls Upon the President to Withdraw the Government Troops

WASHINGTON, July 6—President Cleve- last evening received a long telegram Governor Altgeld, of Illinois, de- ding the withdrawal of United States s from active duty in Illinois Gov Altgeld says in substance:

am advised that you have ordered al troops to go into service in the of Illinois Surely the facts have been correctly presented to you in this or you would not have taken this for it is entirely unnecessary, and, seems to me unjustifiable Waiving uestions of courtesy, I will say that [illegible] violence to the constitution As governor of the state of Illinois I protest against this, and ask the immediate withdrawal of the federal troops from active duty in this state"

To this the president telegraphed the following reply

"Federal troops were sent to Chicago in strict accordance with the constitution and laws of the United States upon the demand of the postoffice department that obstruction of the mails should be re moved, and upon the representations of the judicial officers of the United States that process of the federal courts could not be executed through the ordinary means, and upon abundant proof that conspiracies existed against commerce be tween the states To meet these condi tions, which are clearly within the prov ince of federal authority, the presence of federal troops in the city of Chicago was deemed not only proper but necessary and there has been no intention of thereby interfering with the plain duty of the lo cal authorities to preserve the peace of the city"

UNEASY POWERS.

The Death of the Sultan of Morocco Has Aroused Serious Apprehensions.

Nothing for months has so seriously aroused the apprehensions of the powers of Europe as the death of the sultan of Morocco the other day. The reason is that this large country at the entrance to the Mediterranean holds what is really the most important strategical position in the world. The power which secured the Moorish harbor on the strait of Gibraltar would control the entrance to the sea much more completely than is possible from the heights of Gibraltar. England would of course be most menaced by any change in the control of the Moorish territory, and it may be said without hesitation that if France had attempted to use an opportunity to gain new rights under the changed administration, as was feared, for a day or two after the dramatic dispatch of her fleet to Moorish waters, she might do, war with England would have been almost inevitable. The progress of events, therefore, is being watched with the greatest anxiety throughout Europe.

No one now pretends that England could control the entrance to the Mediterranean by means of the Gibraltar works. The lack of a harbor there makes it impossible. A diplomat of high authority in such matters said to me that, if it became expedient, England would probably offer Gibraltar to Spain as an immense bribe to secure the formation of an alliance for the joint control of Tangier. Such a proposal would be of great practical advantage to England, although it would undoubtedly arouse a storm of sentimental protest. Spain would naturally be eager to accept on any reasonable terms the restoration of the famous stronghold. The present indications are that no immediate crisis will arise from the change of rulers.—New York Sun's London Letter.

"TOO RAPID" MONEY MAKING.

The Imperfect Gold Coin Because of Which a Texan Was Imprisoned.

That was an interesting and instructive little paragraph in The Star which told the story of a $5 goldpiece, suspected of being counterfeit, which was sent to the director of the mint by a special inspector of customs at El Paso. The piece was defective, and upon its appearance a man was arrested at El Paso and charged with the circulation of counterfeit coin.

"Director Preston," says The Star's report, "observed that the coin looked somewhat bad from its general appearance, [illegible] owing to the rapid rolling of the gold strips preparatory to cutting the planchets an air bubble or blister was formed just at the spot in the strip from which the coin was cut. Very little investigation showed the diagnosis of the director to be correct, and it was then stated that 'these slight imperfections occur occasionally, especially when the strips are rolled rapidly.'"

The explanation will doubtless be regarded as perfectly satisfactory by thoughtless folk and will be greeted with delight by the unfortunate person who has been held in custody at El Paso, and who has suffered much indignity and real annoyance because there was carelessness in the minting of the coin. The matter, however, is one of more than little interest, for no one knows whose turn it will next be to be arrested on account of the overhaste or lack of skill of a government employee in one of the mints. Why should the rolling be done "too rapidly"? Everybody knows all about the extreme poverty of the government, but the republic is certainly rich enough to [illegible] its money [illegible] even standard, so that no one will be jailed for attempting to put it to legitimate use.—Washington Star.

MR STOKES' CHARITY PATIENTS.

Men Who Lived at the Hoffman House and Never Paid Anything For Board.

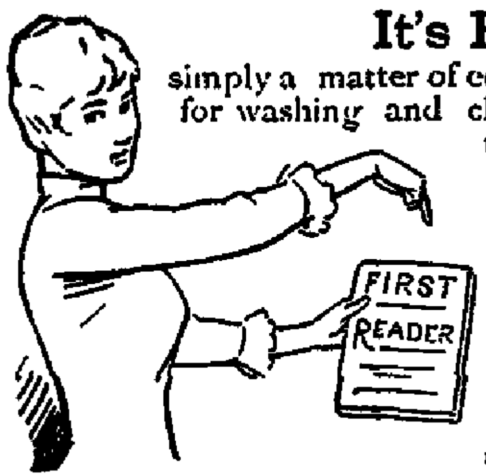
The abrupt closing of the Hoffman House has been taken as a burning and unprovoked insult by a number of men who have been living in that establishment for a great many years, and who are hot and loud in their denunciation of Proprietor Stokes. It is characteristic that this little group of Hoffman House habitues should be particularly sharp in their comments on Mr Stokes' action, because they have been known as his "charity patients" for years.

Two of them have lived in the Hoffman House for upward of 10 years without paying a cent. Another has never paid anything, although he is an old Hoffman House dweller, but he has justified his position in the establishment by running around occasionally and doing odd jobs for the house. Several of the others are notorious with their ever existing lack of funds. It is generally believed that the only way Mr Stokes could get them out of the house was to take the radical move which he decided upon early last week.

There was nothing to be done with the Hoffman House except to build an entirely new structure. The main part of the establishment is so old and rickety that it would be impossible to build additional stories on it, and it would have been a waste of money to try to improve the existing building.—New York Letter.

Days of Disorder.

A Madrid correspondent telegraphs that the twenty-[illegible] days' interval between the death of the sultan and the proclamation of his successor were, according to the national custom, a period of bloody anarchy. The Moors call it "the day of vengeance." Disorders, pillage, murder and rioting raged throughout the land. Family feuds were fought out, individual and tribal vendettas were savagely waged, the wealthy and Jews were pillaged by those who during the life of the sultan had been oppressed by them, and the accumulated resentments and revenges of years were satisfied. It was practically a violent mixture of the Old Testament jubilee and the Roman [illegible] day. Crimes committed in this period are unpunished.



It's Education—

simply a matter of education—the use of Pearline for washing and cleaning. The bright women, those who learn quickly, are using it now. The brighter the woman, the larger her use of it—the more good uses she finds to which she can put Pearline. Dull women, those who never use new things until their bright sisters have drummed it into them—they'll use it presently. It's just a question of sooner or later, with every woman who wants the best.

Send it Back Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back. 404 JAMES PYLE, New York.

MR. WILSON TALKS.

MY Name is Wilson; I do an insurance business on LaSalle street, in Chicago Ill., and I live in Evanston, Ill. Evanston is what was originally a scattering population on a pretty point on Lake Michigan, esteemed years ago far from the city of Chicago, but now one of the varied towns which may go within it by vote of the population.

I am married and have a wife and one child. That child is a boy (I suppose I should feel the same solicitude if it was a girl), and I have a father's natural fancies as to what must be the best thing to give that child the right kind of intelligence, and so divert his course that he may succeed in life. I have studied a great deal upon the subject. My own experience would not be of great value, because I have succeeded only to the limit of the average man and am barely established; still, I own the house and lot upon which I live, and am feeling perfectly safe in meeting the exigencies of the year. I want the boy to take a broader view than I did, to be a bigger man in the world. I have studied how to teach him to do that, and he has done pretty well, as far as the preliminaries go. Now, I have thought over what I should say to him and have sometimes been puzzled. I could not very well tell him what to do. I wanted to tell him what I needed but what I did not learn myself when I was of his age, and what my father did not know how to tell me or else was not thoughtful enough to do so. I wanted to tell him how to follow the example of those who have succeeded at the present time and under the circumstances which ordinarily affect a young man struggling in this Republic established on this comparatively new world to-day. I wanted to tell him just what he had better do to get along well, and to point out to him what had been done by the people who were successful at the present time.

Of course, the record of the people of any time past would not be of so much value, because circumstances must necessarily have been different when they were alive. I feel confident, though, that if I could learn, some way and somehow, what the people who are so successful to-day have done and how they did it, I could give to my boy such advice as would make his own life at least as far removed from failure as justified by the natural ability he may possess.

I looked around for some authority which I might consult in order to give him the facts most essential with this idea of mine in mind, but I could find none until I discovered that a great publishing firm in Chicago had decided to bring out a book giving the photographs of all the people who are prominent in America to-day. Here was what I wanted. The book, as I have learned, is going to be published in 16 parts, 16 pages to each, with a recent photograph on each page of some active leading American man or woman of to-day, while underneath appears the story of that same person's life—the story telling what that person did, and how the ends attained were eventually accomplished. Here was what I wanted; here was what I needed in various ways, here was what I was certainly seeking in order to obtain the information with which to educate my boy and secure for him that knowledge which will give him a source of thought and make him prominent in the world.

I have the first sheets of this work. It is a graphic story of America's Greatest Men and Women, told in each instance on a single page underneath a photograph of recent date, which conveys to the eye an idea of what that person is. To me the photograph tells even more than the suggestive record beneath; and yet it is odd how in each instance the correct story corresponds with the expression upon the face which is reproduced in the portrait above. I do not know how the series will end. I know very little about this new feature of the newspaper people; I know nothing about the publishers and their expectations, but I do know this: that if the series so begun should be continued to its practical, ordinary good sense end—and I don't care whether that will include 200 or 700 of America's Greatest Men and Women, which is the title of the book—I do know this, that for the ordinary, active and alert business man—I will certainly say far more for the student or the literary man, or the politician or the statesman—for all these I will say it will be simply the most valuable and the most remarkable book produced in modern history. The wonder is that some one has not thought of it before. Yet no one seems to have done so since the days of Plutarch. Plutarch knew something. That shrewd old fellow knew that all who would get out of the draft, all who would accomplish great things, wanted to know every detail of the lives of those who had better luck or more courage or a broader brain than their fellows, but I am no authority on these points. I only know that there is produced a second Plutarch's Lives, that its biographies are shrewd, graphic and curt, and written without bias and without prejudice. I only know that there was a Plutarch—God bless the old fellow—and that there is this modern work.

This is the work I am going to give to my boy. I am going to make him read it thoroughly. The work is announced as consisting of 16 Parts, with 16 pages and 16 photographs in each part, and when bound, the whole series will make a great volume of 256 pages, the like of which has never been equaled. It is the story of the personal character of the men and women who are making the nation's history at this particular time. What a work this is! Do you imagine that I would miss it for my boy, or, incidentally, for myself?

A DUAL MIND.

Peculiar and Useful Gift of a Young Musician of Pittsburg.

An extraordinary illustration of the dual working of the mind is to be found in a young musician of Pittsburg. Oscar Radin is about 19 years old. He is possessed of wonderful musical ability, especially in the arrangement of orchestral scores. He has scored some difficult high class music for certain well known musicians to their perfect satisfaction and wonderment, for as yet this youth is but a novice in musical work, having only recently completed his course of study under a local musician. But ability to arrange orchestral scores well is something that cannot be imparted to a person by any amount of teaching, but must be born in a man, and Radin certainly has this gift. Like all men of genius, Radin must live, and to live requires money. In lieu of anything better the young musician took a place as pianist in a dancing academy. Between the times when he is employed in playing for lessons he devotes his attention to arranging.

Radin is a most studious individual and when his time is not occupied in this way he seeks to increase his knowledge by reading. Of course most of his time is taken by playing the piano, but this does not interfere with his study in the least. He plays the music for dancers, taking the signal to start and stop unconsciously from the professor, never even glancing up from the book on the music rack in which he may be absorbed. He reads away, apparently undisturbed by having to play or by the flitting forms on the floor. And the books he reads are not the sort which could be read lightly. Histories, books of travel and books on philosophy are read with equal ease while he is playing. His playing is in perfect time, and his memory of what he reads is extraordinary. Here is an instance of [illegible] in which the double [illegible] and without [illegible].—Pittsburg Dispatch.

The young prince is a handsome but dissipated fellow and has disposed of a large fortune. He has a record of losing $3,000 at baccarat in a single night.

Not long ago, with a party of chums, he went to Baltimore to play a game of pool with the grandson of old Governor Swan for $1,000 a side, and returning by the midnight train they went to the Metropolitan club to continue their diversion. They found the building closed, but routed out the watchman, lighted up the billiard room and the barroom, and proceeded to make themselves merry without regard to the rules of the institution. A good many glasses and bottles were smashed, and it was breakfast time before the riot was over. The governors of the club took up the case, and those who participated in the fracas were called in to answer charges. All of them made humble and ample apologies and promised never to do it again, except young Iturbide, who took the ground that a prince never apologizes and made no reply, whereupon the board promptly suspended him from the privileges of the club.—Chicago Record.

PERPLEXED BY AN ODD JUROR.

Only Twelve Names Were Called, but There Were Thirteen Men In the Box.

An unusual incident occurred in the supreme court in this city the other day when County Clerk Sutphin drew a trial jury. Although only 12 names were called, 13 men occupied seats in the box.

To rectify the mistake the clerk went over the list again. Each juror responded to his name, and when the clerk got through there were still the 13 men, but only 12 names. Another plan was tried to find out who was the odd juror. As the names were called each juror was requested to rise, but the result was the same. Thirteen stood up.

The clerk scratched his head, and the jurors were requested to resume their seats. The clerk was about to repeat the same plan when a court officer volunteered the information that there were two men in the box named James Watts. One was from Hempstead and the other from Jamaica, and both were anxious to serve as jurors. The two James Wattses then stood up, and Justice Brown excused the Hempstead Watts, and the interrupted business of the court was resumed.—Long Island City Star.

Costly Honors.

The peerage never fell so disastrously upon any one as on Bernard Coleridge, the eldest son of the late chief justice. It means for him the sudden close of a most promising career and practical ruin. His father's estate is worth less than £2,000 annually, which is utterly inadequate to the dignities of his rank. The new peer succeeded in developing a most successful practice as a barrister. He must abandon this because he becomes, nolens volens, a member of the house of lords. The theory is that every member of the upper house is a judge of the highest appeal court and cannot therefore appear as an advocate in that or any inferior court.—London Letter.

Australian Premiers Go Armed.

PHILADELPHIA MILK PRICES.

Though Seemingly Much Higher, in Reality Only Fractionally Higher.

From the Independent Republican.

According to published statements the Exchange price of milk in Philadelphia is three cents per quart, against two cents in New York. The figures are accurate but misleading. The Philadelphia farmer sells his milk to the dealer by dry measure, at 2½ lb [illegible] his forty-quart can contains 100 lbs., while the New York dairyman's hold only 80 lbs. This is in turn in part offset by the railway rate, a 17½ cent rate carrying 2,000 lbs. of milk or 25 cans for $4.38, and a 35-cent rate carrying the same weight or 25 cans for $8.75. The difference, therefore, is comparatively small, perhaps $1 on 1,000 quarts. The matter was thoroughly investigated a few years ago, by Mr. W. A. Lawrence, the well known creameryman, of Chester, and Grinnell Burt, President of the Lehigh and Hudson River Railroad. They were unable to come to the conclusion that Orange county milk could be sold more profitably in Philadelphia than in New York and consequently never attempted it.

O. AND W.'S "WILD WEST" EXCURSION.

A Cheap Excursion, via the Steamer Angler to Buffalo Bill's Great Show.

The New York, Ontario and Western Railroad announces that on Tuesday, July 17th, it will run an excursion from Livingston Manor and stations south to Cornwall, to New York, giving our people an opportunity of witnessing "Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show" and "Congress of Rough Riders of the World," which is now drawing immense crowds.

The steamer "Angler" has been chartered to transport the party from Cornwall direct to Ambrose Park, South Brooklyn, where the great exhibition is given.

Tickets will be sold at the lowest rate ever made from this section.

The sail down the "Lordly Hudson" and the return trip in the gloaming will long be remembered.

The exhibition is not only interesting but instructive and full particulars will be given on small bills.

The Fourth at Mr. J. C. Wickham's—Haying—Many Personal Notes.

Correspondence ARGUS and MERCURY.

—In spite of the showers which came up just at night, a goodly number of invited guests gathered Wednesday evening at the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wickham, to enjoy a fine display of fireworks, after which refreshments were served and a pleasant evening spent in music and singing and social intercourse, and thus ended one more of the pleasant gatherings which take place every Fourth of July at Mr. Wickham's.

—Farmers are very busy in their hay and the wheat is beginning to look ripe for the harvest.

—Mr. Fred Tillen and sister, of Jersey City, and Mr. Spangle, of New York city, spent the Fourth in this place.

—Mrs. H. Percy, of St. Augustine, Florida, and Mr. O. D. Wickham and family, of Port Jervis, spent the Fourth with their brother, Mr. J. C. Wickham in this village.

—Mr. S. L. Smith and wife, of New York city, visited his aunt Mrs. C. C. Stage on the Fourth.

—Mr. S Creeden and family spent the Fourth at Mr. M. Creeden's.

—What has become of the seventeen year locust? Its song is no more heard in this vicinity.

—There was a fine display of fireworks on the lawn of Mr. G. R. Moran at Milo, Wednesday evening.

—Mr. T. Bodman and son Robert, are spending a few days at Washingtonville.

—Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Wickham are visiting their son Ross at Boonton, N. J.

—Mrs. Hulett and son Leslie, of Middletown, are spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Halse, near this village.

HOW EDDINGER DIED.

The California Murderer Threw Up His Hands With a Pistol In One.

The particulars of the killing of F. S. Eddinger, the man who robbed Teamster Otto Hampton of Jose & Ellery's freight money and the murderer of his employer, E. W. Jose, whom he had shot and fatally wounded on the night of June 14 at Lewiston, Trinity county, while the latter was trying to arrest him for the robbery, show that the fugitive was shot through the heart with a rifle ball fired by Deputy Sheriff Chase.

After Jose had been shot Sheriff Bowie of Weaverville, Trinity county, took up the trail of the murderer at Lewiston and tracked him to within five miles of Redding. He came into Redding and notified the officers here that he was certain that the robber was heading for the railroad, and that he was positive that he was on the right track.

Constable Pleisch and Deputy Sheriff Chase took the trail, proceeding to Cottonwood, Shasta county, until within a mile of that place, where the road crosses the railroad track, where they stopped, each taking one side of the road. Soon they saw Eddinger coming down the road and commanded him to halt. When the robber stopped, Chase said, "Throw up your hands."

The robber answered, "I have done nothing."

There came a shot from Pleisch's gun over the robber's head and again the injunction, "Throw up your hands."

The robber threw both hands up and at the same time his pistol. Chase could not see the pistol in his hand. The robber remarked: "There! My hands are up and nothing in them."

There was a fence between Chase and the robber, and Chase was obliged to climb over. When he had got over, he noticed the pistol in the robber's hand. Leveling his rifle, Chase said, "Drop that pistol," when the robber lowered his hand and at the same time commenced firing.

After two shots Chase fell on his knees, and the robber, thinking he had killed his pursuer, turned and commenced shooting at Pleisch. While in this condition Chase took deliberate aim with his rifle and sent a ballet through the robber's heart, killing him instantly.—Redding Cor. San Francisco Chronicle.

QUITE A CHARACTER.

Death of the Last Slave Sold at Auction In New Haven.

Mrs. Lois Tritton, colored, died at her home in this city Monday at the age of 95. She has long been a local celebrity from the fact that she was the last slave sold at public auction in this city in 1825. The original papers of this transaction are in the possession of ex-Governor Ingersoll and show that its purpose was to give her her freedom. The sale was by the sheriff under an execution issued on a former judgment against her owner, human goods and chattels having been levied on to satisfy an execution. The sheriff's return is dated March 10, 1825, and recites that on the 8th of March, 1825, by virtue of the execution, he sold Lucy, the mother, and Lois Tritton, the daughter, as the property of the defendant, to Anthony P. Sanford for $10. A deed of manumission from Mr. Sanford accompanies the documents.

Mrs. Tritton was born in Halifax on Christmas eve, 1790, and visited this city with a family named Tritton in 1820. It was from this family she received the name of Tritton. She returned to Nova Scotia, but came to New Haven again in 1821 or 1823, and after being sold to Mr. Sanford was given her liberty. She has resided here ever since and was a member of Trinity Episcopal church.—New Haven Special.

Firing Big Guns.

"The man who has never been in close proximity to a 100 ton gun when it is fired can have little conception of the noise and vibration," said Lieutenant John W. Leigh, a retired naval officer. "Partly by courtesy and partly by chance I was on the Thunderer at the siege of Alexandria some years ago. Two sets of advice were given me as to how to act when the big guns were fired. Old experienced seamen can stand the shock by raising on their toes the moment the word is given to fire. The majority of people, however, find it necessary in order to preserve their eardrums from perforation to lie down, resting most of the weight on their hands and toes. Even with this precaution the sensation is most unpleasant until one is used to it. Even with the comparatively small guns in general use in [illegible] the concussion on board a ship [illegible] shot is fired is very annoying, and the enormous guns used so generally in European navies are a source of terrible danger to the crew as well as the enemy, and I doubt if they could possibly be used in a hand to hand encounter, useful as they are for destroying distant ports.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Breach of Promise Suits.

Goldie asks if a young man can sue a young woman for breach of promise if while engaged to him she marries another man. Answer: There are a great many foolish young people in the world, Goldie, who seem to think that they can in some way by money compensation make up for unhappiness, sleepless nights, tears and heartache. Unless there has been some actual wrong, breach of promise suits are a very poor investment. They generally end in a good deal of scandal and have most unpleasant consequences. If no real wrong has been sustained, the court would likely award about a cent damages, and there would be heavy costs and all parties made ridiculous. Such suits are best let alone. Legally a man can sue for breach of promise as well as a woman, but he appears very ridiculous when he does so.—New York Ledger.

FRIDAY, JULY 6, 1894.

The crank, who was gunning for ex-President Harrison in Atlantic City, yesterday, and who declared that "he had caused all the hard times" may have been twisted on some things but was straight enough on the main point that Republican misrule and extravagance are responsible for the business ills that afflict the country.

The report of Treasury expenditures for the last fiscal year shows a saving in pensions of $12,000,000. No worthy pensioner has been deprived of the stipend due him from the Government and good progress has been made with the adjudication of claims for new and increased pensions. The saving has all been effected by checking the frauds which honeycombed the Pension Bureau under Republican rule.

As we read of the rioting and destruction of property in Chicago, yesterday, which the city and State authorities seem to have made no real effort to prevent, and contrast it with the prompt and effective manner in which Gov. Flower dealt with the switchmen's strike in Buffalo, two years ago, as soon as acts of violence were committed, we may be pardoned if we say a little boastfully "we manage these things a great deal better in the Empire State."

A canvass of the House of Representatives by the World's Washington correspondent shows 116 Democrats, 78 Republicans and 7 Populists are opposed to the sugar schedule as fixed by the Senate; two Democrats favor its adoption, while 41 Democrats, 8 Republicans and 1 Populist decline to express an opinion. Without accepting the figures above given as absolutely accurate they leave no doubt that a large majority of the Representatives, who stand so much closer to the people than the [illegible], are disposed to make a [illegible] fight for the elimination from [illegible] tariff bill of the sugar duties [illegible] inure to the benefit of the [illegible] Trust and which will be felt by every family in the land.

Britannia rules the waves, but only by the bad luck of the Vigilant, which, after leading almost to the finish, was becalmed and lost first place. It was Britannia weather, rough water and strong breeze, but when the last turn was made the Vigilant lead by 3 m. 45s., and despite her bad luck in the matter of wind, was only beaten by thirty-five seconds. Although beaten, the Vigilant proved herself much the better boat, and her superiority was so manifest that the British papers, although they cackle and crow over the Britannia's victory, cackle and crow in a very subdued way that suggests the fear that it is the last time they expect to have a chance to again exult over the defeat of the Yankee yacht.

It is reported in Washington that President Cleveland heartily sympathizes with the efforts that will be made in the House of Representatives to strike from the tariff bill some of the most odious protective features grafted on it in the Senate. A sense of official propriety, an unwillingness to put the executive branch of the government in the attitude of interfering with the legislative branch in the exercise of its law making powers, will restrain the President from making any effort to influence congressional action, but if it is known that he heartily favors real tariff reform and is opposed to the Senate's makeshift of shreds and patches, the moral effect of his position on the action of the House must necessarily be very great.

To Remove to New York.

Dr. Fred A. Carpenter, whose resignation as city physician was tendered and accepted at the meeting of the Common Council, will locate in New York City for the practice of his profession. His office will be at 367 West Twenty-third street. The doctor has been spending a portion of his time in New York for some time past and already has built up some practice.

Vital Statistics for June.

Mr. F. A. R. Pronk, Registrar of Vital Statistics, for this city, makes the following report for June: Deaths, 13; births, 19; marriages, 9. Of the deaths four were the results of accidents. No cases of contagious disease were reported during the month.

No Appetite—Lame Back.

"After I had the grip in the winter I felt so miserable and was in such poor health that I was nearly discouraged. I had no appetite and everything I ate I had to force down. I also suffered with lame back. I bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and before I had taken all of it I felt ever so much better, it gave me a good appetite and my back is all right."—MRS. A PROFITABLE INVESTMENT.

The Large Rentals Yielded by the Turner Homestead Property.

Dr. Reigle in Newburgh Journal

The Peter Turner Homestead of 60 acres, upon which are old grist mill, the Erie restaurant and offices, and many tenement buildings, cost the present owner, Mr. Duryea, of Goshen, $20,000, and is bringing him in a yearly rental of about $3,000, and he receives all his rental weekly. The bare farm rents for $400, and the rent of the little bar room at the east end of the station is $10 per week, and as I have stated the rents are paid weekly. Yet the buildings are sadly out of repair generally and the tenants are vigorously kicking because they have been unable to have necessary work done upon them. There is a little war cloud visible as a result of this state of affairs. As yet the new horse shed has not materialized. The old one was a great convenience to the public, and another is greatly needed and desired.

Motorman McElroy, of Newburgh, Arraigned for Manslaughter.

Motorman McElroy, of Newburgh, who was running the car that caused the fatal accident, Wednesday night, was arraigned, yesterday morning, on a charge of manslaughter in the second degree. He was released on $1,500 bail to await the result of the coroner's inquest. McElroy feels badly about the accident and remarked when he heard Mrs. Moore was dead that he wished it was himself instead of her.

Everybody Likes

to be called handsome, especially the young ladies. But that is simply impossible as long as their face is covered with blotches and sores. Hood's Sarsaparilla Made Him Feel as Young as a Boy.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Gentlemen—I wish to express my grateful thanks for Hood's Sarsaparilla. I am on my seventh bottle and it has truly been a blessing to myself and wife. I had a severe attack of pneumonia last December, and it was thought I should die, but I gradually pulled through, and then did not seem to gain any strength. I had to be helped like an infant, and my [illegible] away from 1[illegible] to 90 lbs. I read about Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I decided to take it.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Charles F. Johnson.

Joanna Board, wife of Mr. Charles F. Johnson, died at her home in the town of Goshen, on the road leading to Chester, at 3 o'clock Monday morning, after an illness of four weeks, during which time her suffering was intense. Mrs. Johnson was born at Ringwood, N. J., in 1817, and was married to Mr. Johnson forty-seven years ago. The deceased is survived by her husband and three sons, Charles E., Asher and Wm. S., all residents of this county.

The funeral services was held at her late residence on Thursday, at 11 a. m. Interment in Chester Cemetery.

Louis Miller.

Louis Miller, formerly employed by Mr. Theo. Frank as clerk and who later occupied the same position at the Hamilton House, died at the home of his brother, in New York city, this morning at 5 o'clock. Mr. Miller had been at the Adirondacks, but his disease, consumption, was so deeply seated that he died in less than a week after returning to his home.

Mr. Miller had many friends in this city who will be pained to learn of his death.

THROWN FROM A TRAIN

An Employe of the Electric Road Badly Injured by a Brutal Erie Brakeman.

From the Port Jervis Union.

Mr. John Bennet, an employe of the Middletown electric road and formerly a resident of this village, had a terrible experience while returning to Middletown on Tuesday after a brief visit to friends in this village.

Having no money to pay fare, Bennet tried to secure a free ride to Middletown by jumping aboard an east bound coal train. On the way up the mountain, a short distance beyond Shin Hollow, the head brakeman discovered him, and after a brief parley unceremoniously seized him and threw him from the train, which was going at a considerable rate of speed.

Bennet fell face forward on the rough, broken stone with which the road-bed is ballasted, and received frightful cuts and injuries about the face. Although badly crippled, the injured man hobbled back to Port Jervis, and on his arrival here was cared for by friends.

Those who saw the injured man state that his face was shockingly bruised and mutilated and they are indignant at the brutal and unjustifiable conduct of the brakeman.

The friends of Mr. Bennet have advised him to institute criminal proceedings against his assailant.

THOSE BROKEN FLAG STONES

Property Owners Indignant and Threaten to Prosecute the Reckless Users of High Explosives—Better Settle Boys.

The many property owners about town whose pavements were injured by the powerful explosives used by the thoughtless persons who made a tour of the city, Tuesday evening, are becoming more and more angry as time passes, and no action is being taken by the authorities to ferret out and bring to justice the parties responsible for the mischief.

It is said that several of the property owners know who the guilty parties are, but do not care to force the matter owing to the high standing of some of the thoughtless youngsters. Others claim that unless the young men appear to them and settle for the damages done to their property they will institute proceedings and carry them through, regardless of whom they may affect.

The authorities are scarcely to blame for not acting in the matter. None of the policemen on duty that night saw the young men in the act of placing the explosives where damage was done, and no formal complaints have been lodged at headquarters against any individuals.

The easiest way out of the matter is for the young fellows to toe the mark and pay for the damages like men and "don't do it again."

The Act of a Brute.

A Port Jervis boy, Tuesday night, dropped a can of powder and a quantity was spilled upon the sidewalk. As he and a companion were stooping over and gathering it up some one threw a lighted match into the powder which flashed up into the boys' faces, burning them badly and nearly destroying the sight of one of them.

Prompt Payment of Loss.

Mr. L. Wengenroth received, today, through Case & Taylor, agents, payment in full for his loss by fire on July 4th. He was insured in the North British and Mercantile Insurance Co.

H. Wood; Prince H., Geo. Sharts; Lena C., P. E. Gumaer; Jupiter A., Geo. Perman; Laura J., Simon Walsh; Bud Penny, R. M. Smiley; Bipiet, J. E. Platt.

ACADEMY ALUMNI BANQUET.

The Class of '94 Entertained by the Classes of '92 and '93—A Very Pleasant Occasion.

The banquet hall at the Casino was again made to echo and re-echo with shouts of laughter and with songs coming from the mouths of many happy students, last night, when the second annual banquet of the classes of '92 and '93 of "Old Wallkill" was held, with the class of '94 as honored guests.

The participants in the feast began to arrive at the Casino parlors shortly after 9 o'clock but the banquet proper did not begin until near the hour of 10. From the time when the thirty banqueters sat down until the last toast was finished all care was banished and each one gave himself or herself up to having the best kind of a time.

After having finished the collation provided by the caterer, the toastmaster, Mr. Frank Ogden, arose and assured the guests that the best part of the menu was yet to come and each one was fully aware of that fact before the toasts had even begun. From the time the toastmaster introduced the first speaker until the last toast was ended all was enjoyment within the walls of the banquet hall. Wit flowed freely in the remarks of every speaker, the future of nearly every member of each class was truly predicted, and when the history of '94 was ended it was with regret that the feasters left the hall.

This is the second annual banquet that has been held by the graduates of Wallkill Academy, the plan having been started by the class of '92. The success of the banquets so far has been very encouraging and it is hoped that an alumni association may soon be formed and that this plan of meeting once a year to do honor to "Old Wallkill" may never die out.

Following is the lists of toasts:

Welcome to '94	Mr R B. Beattie
Last Year's Banquet	Miss Grace Denton
Prophecy '92	Mr Malcolm Borty
The Boys	Miss May Harmon
The Girls	Mr Herbert Royce
Prophecy '93	Miss [illegible] Farrell
Prophecy '94	Mr Richard Knight
Our President	Miss Nora Roosa
Class History	Mr Abe Lipfeld

Those present were:

CLASS OF '92.

Robert Brewster Beattie, Malcolm Borty, Alice Adams, Hattie Bryant, Mamie Crist, Grace Denton, May Harmon, Nellie Purdy.

CLASS OF '93.

Helen Farrell, Herbert Royce, Paul Canfield, Frank Ogden, Addie Carpenter, Nellie Carey, Fannie Moore, Helena Bender, Grace Bradley, Lulu Corwin, Cecelia Dolson, Maude Smith, Charles Connor, Philip Borty, Emma Wolf.

CLASS OF '94.

Claribel Gardner, May Corwin, May Purvis, Nora Roosa, Abram Lipfeld, Richard Knight.

Another Trolley Accident in Newburgh

A carriage in which Patrick Delany and George Johnson, of Newburgh, were driving, yesterday, failed to get out of the way of an electric car and was overturned, and both occupants thrown out. Mr. Delany was picked up unconscious and is suffering from concussion of the brain.

Shot in the Neck.

William Goodwin, a Newburgh young man, was shot in the neck, Wednesday, by a young man named Sheehey. The wound is bad, but not necessarily fatal. Sheehey and Gordon both say it was accident, but others say it was the result of a fight.

A Difficult Surgical Operation.

Dr. Pillsbury performed a double ovaritomy for a patient from out of town, at his house, yesterday morning. Drs. Strable, Douglas and Hanmer assisted.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

"Mystic Cure" for Rheumatism and Neuralgia radically cures in one to three days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause, and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. Seventy-five cents. Sold by J. E. Mills, druggist, Middletown.

Work on the Deposit Milk Condensery

Good progress is being made with the buildings of the New York Condensed Milk Company at Deposit. The roof is being put on the storehouse and the bricklayers have nearly finished the walls of the main building. Machinists are putting in the pipes that run under the ground floor and masons are building the stone piers for the engines, boilers, pumps, etc. The big chimney, which is to be 152 feet high, is up about twenty-five feet.

Personal.

A young lady of seventeen summers, highly educated, refined, and of prepossessing appearance, desires to form the acquaintance of some nice young man, whom she would advise, if troubled with dyspepsia, to use that great blood purifier, Sulphur Bitters.

MURDERED BY REQUEST.

Aged Frenchman, Tired of Life, Hires a Boy to Stab Him to Death

A strange boy [illegible] Bertholier, a lad of [illegible] who has been tried before the Aix assizes for killing an old man named Blanchard at the latter's request. In [illegible] he related his crime with grim composure. He said:

"On Friday, Oct. 13 (mark the uncanny day and date), the day before the arrival of the Russians, Blanchard and I went to Toulon. He then spoke to me for the first time of his intention of putting an end to his life. He dwelt on this topic [illegible] telling me about his lamentable [illegible] condition and earnestly [illegible] me to deliver him from his [illegible]."

"Did you ask him why [illegible] hesitated [illegible]"

"He told [illegible] he could not [illegible] himself to the point [illegible] religious scruples. A [illegible] later he came into my [illegible] and [illegible] me up. He said: [illegible] today. I wish it to be [illegible] by this evening.' I [illegible] very astonished. He added: 'I am going to sign a bill for 1,600 francs [illegible] You [illegible] cash it at my notary's at [illegible]'"

"That [illegible] caused you to make up your mind?"

"[illegible] of stamped paper and [illegible] the bill, which Blanchard [illegible] Then we went to Joliette (to [illegible]) to take the steam tramway. Just before starting we went to a cafe where my friend made me drink glasses of peppermint. He gave me sixpence to buy a knife at a store. In the tramway Blanchard told me to smoke a lot in order to deaden my feelings.

"At L'Estaque we entered another cafe, and I was made to drink four or five absinthes. We were going along the highroad, when Blanchard, stopping, said: 'This seems to be the right spot. We shall be very comfortable here.'

"We went under the road bridge. My friend undressed and blindfolded his eyes and stretched himself on the flagstones."

"How many blows did you strike with your knife?"

"Four. On the way he had recommended me to strike several times—to strike at the temples and the jugular vein."

"Indeed you followed out his advice. You struck with a deftness which a professional murderer would envy. Did Blanchard die at once?"

"Yes. He leaned forward a little, heaved a sigh, and that's all."

"What did you do next?"

"I had a little blood on my fingers. I washed them in the sea."

"Did you feel no remorse, no terror?"

"A little, yes."

The jury brought in a verdict of not guilty on the ground that Bertholier had acted without knowledge of crime, but the tribunal ordered that he should be sent to a house of correction until the age of 20.—Paris Journal.

SEAGOING HOBOES.

Ships Sailing From San Francisco Are Carrying a Full List of Stowaways.

Nearly every ship that has gone out of port in the past two months has had one or more stowaways on board. As a rule, captains do not object to one or two, but when it comes to half a dozen or more it is a serious matter. The coasters to northern ports have been most patronized by stowaways, and now it is the usual thing for the captains of the ships to make a tour through the hold of their vessels to make sure that they will not have more of a crew than they can feed.

On the last trip of the Enoch Arden north nine men were stowed away in her hold when she was towed out of port, and they did not show themselves until the tug was well out of hailing distance. When the vessel reached Seattle, she was nearly bare of provisions. The stowaways on ships north are all bound for the lumber regions of Washington or the mines of British Columbia, where they hope to get work. Those who manage to get away from San Francisco on ships bound elsewhere seem to have no definite end in view except to keep moving if it does not take too much exertion.—San Francisco Examiner.

An English Nail Eater.

A remarkable surgical operation was performed this week at the Lancaster County Lunatic asylum upon William Fitzpatrick, one of the inmates. This man some time ago took to swallowing things, and on Monday morning he ate 192 flooring nails, which naturally upset his digestion. An operation was decided upon without the remotest chance of saving the man's life. During the operation, which lasted two hours, the surgeon took from his stomach the 192 nails aforesaid, varying from 1½ to 3 inches in length, a half of a screw, a piece of wire, two buttons and a mass of matted hair. The nails alone weighed nearly two pounds. Fitzpatrick is expected to die.—London News.

Private Letters Made Public.

There has been much speculation over the appearance in the auction mart recently of private letters to prominent persons still living. Thus nine letters from Motley, the American historian, to Bismarck were sold this week for $300. One was marked "private and confidential" and was addressed "Dear Old Bismarck." There is no doubt that these letters are genuine, but the natural query is, How did they get into the public market?—London Standard.

His Apology.

Editor Meacham delivered a speech at the banquet of the Kentucky Press club at Frankfort and published the thing in full in the next issue of his own newspaper. He thus apologized to his readers: "This is not done at anybody's request nor to fill a long felt want. In fact, we have no good excuse of any kind for publishing it. But, as it is labeled, those who wish to escape are not obliged to read it."

Loyal Deputation of Thieves.

Manufacturing popular support for royalty has awkward effects sometimes. The other day a so called loyal deputation of subjects waited upon the king of Servia to thank him for trampling upon their liberties by suspending the constitution. According to the ancient custom, they were entertained at a luncheon, at which sladko, the national dish, was served to them on gold plates. After their departure it was discovered that some spoons, which were also of gold, had disappeared. The men were followed, and the spoons were found in their [illegible]. "ADAMANT" WALL PLASTER!

The New, Cheap Substitute for Common Plaster.

It is very hard and very adhesive; it does away with the marring and shrinkage of doors and casings, and the building is not saturated with water, as it necessarily must be when common plaster is used. It costs originally but little more than lime plaster, and in the end its superior qualities make it immeasurably cheaper; it saves waiting several weeks or months for the building to dry out; it does not crack or fall off, even in the case of leakage; it is applied easily by any good plasterer, it is the only material with which repairing can be done neatly and to stay.

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

'MANDY JANE PENSTOCK.

A Tale of Love and Love Charms in the Pennsylvania Hemlock Belt.

One time when I was up in the Pennsylvania hemlock belt I was going from Overman's Hook to the Barley Run Cross Forks' when I heard some one whistle off to one side of the road. Looking in that direction I saw a man peering cautiously from behind a big hemlock tree. He motioned for me to stop, and I did.

"Ye hain't color blind, be ye?"

I wasn't.

"Then a woman in a red calliker dress an a green sunbonnet wouldn't be liable to look to you like one in a yaller dress an a blue sunbonnet, would she?"

She wouldn't.

"Then hain't no mistake o' dust nowheres that looks as if it mought be stirred by a woman in a red caliker dress an a green sunbonnet comin this way pretty fast, is thar?"

The road was entirely free from anything of that sort.

"Ye hain't noways nighsighted, be ye?"

Quite the contrary.

"Then if thar was a cloud o' dust such as that not more'n two yards down the road, ye wouldn't be liable to take it for a haystack a milful away, would ye?"

Entirely out of the question.

"'Cause ye see I'm a leetle anxious," he said, "fer if ye'd ketch a woman with a red caliker dress an a green sunbonnet comin' [illegible] it'd be a woman with a red calliker dress an a green sunbonnet that'd be 'Mandy Jane Penstock, an I'd [illegible] to take to the woods."

"What's the matter with 'Mandy Jane?'" I asked.

He [illegible] his face with his sleeve and fanned himself with his hat and said:

"Did ye ever have a hankerin for a gal that didn't seem to keer to hanker for ye?"

I didn't know that I ever had.

[illegible] "'Mandy Jane [illegible], will ye?"

[illegible]

[illegible] Sam [illegible]

"One o' these days, when I hear that 'Mandy Jane Penstock has passed over Jordan, I [illegible] to the Hook an jest [illegible] the life outen Sam Lineas. Sam an me worked on the same loggin job, an after I bagged the owl I says [illegible]

"[illegible]," I says, "[illegible] won't [illegible]"

[illegible]

"[illegible]" says Sam. [illegible]

"'[illegible],' I says, '[illegible] Jes' [illegible] on the road agin, cap. It [illegible] 'Mandy Jane [illegible], an I'll [illegible]'

The [illegible]

"Sam [illegible] a little when I told him [illegible]

"'Well,' he [illegible] take Sallie [illegible] for [illegible] anywhere,' [illegible] to that,' he says.

"'Just [illegible],' I says.

"'Mandy Jane Penstock [illegible] but I don't [illegible] when that was. She'll [illegible] if she [illegible] herself. But, [illegible] out [illegible]. 'Mandy Jane don't [illegible], though, an when she has [illegible] on her mind that she's goin' to do she's goin' to do it, or things will rumble.

"Sam [illegible] he took Sallie to the picnic, an I was there with my [illegible] all ready. Sallie [illegible] considerable to Sam, an it made me squirm to see her, I tell ye, but I says to my self, 'All right, my lady,' I says. 'Bide a bit till the hoot owl sings to ye,' I says. Bimeby I says to Sam an Sallie:

"'Come over an I'll treat ye,' I says. 'Come get some lemonade,' I says.

"An they come along, an I bought the lemonade, an when Sallie wasn't lookin I [illegible] the owl's gizzard powder near her glass.

"'Oh,' she says. 'Yonder's 'Mandy Jane Penstock,' she says. ''Mandy must have a treat, too,' she says.

"So she calls 'Mandy Jane over, an I orders a glass fer her. Now see what Sallie done. She hands the glass that had the owl's gizzard in it over to 'Mandy Jane an took t'other one herself, an 'fore I could stop her 'Mandy Jane had gulped it down, love powder an all! You're sure ye hain't color blind, cap?"

Soon as I see 'Mandy Jane gulp that lemonade an owl's gizzard I give one cold shake an started for home to pack my trunk. This was only yesterday. When I come out ag'in, there was 'Mandy Jane."

"'Ah,' says she, 'after all these years,' says she, 'an to think that you'm to be the one,' says she. 'I'll be ready tomorrow,' says she, 'an me an you'll go to the squire's. Tomorrow at half past 9' says she.

"Say, cap, I sneaked back in the house an slammed the door an went up stairs an hid under the bed. Early this mornin I [illegible] out [illegible] the house an [illegible] for liberty. As I [illegible] the hill I turned an looked back. There was 'Mandy Jane comin on my trail like the woods afire. She's comin yit. She's only stopped for wind. Has she hove in sight yit?"

"Not yet."

"Then I'll take to the woods an mebbe won't see no t'backer for a month, cap, an less you gimme that plug o' your'n. An when 'Mandy Jane heaves up with ye if ye'll only jes' tell her"—

But I hadn't time to wait to hear what I was to tell 'Mandy Jane and drove on toward Barley Run Cross Forks.—New York Sun.

AN "ARGUS" MAN OFF DUTY AIMS AT SEVERAL SUBJECTS.

Spread Tacks for Bicycle Racers—The Wheat and Rye Harvest—Only an Incident to Latter Day Farming in Orange County—Why Rye is Sown Instead of Wheat—A Courtly Tramp.

Members of the racing committee of the Tourist Cycle Club were inspecting the track, at Clifton, N. J., Wednesday morning, to see that it was in perfect order for the Fourth of July races, when they found a number of tacks on the track. Looking more closely they found that some one had been to the pains to stand a whole package of large tacks on their heads, so that no bicycle could have made the circuit of the track without having its tires punctured. The whole track had to be carefully scraped to get rid of the tacks.

The wheat and rye harvest in this vicinity will soon be ripe for the reaper, but it will not take the farmers long to gather it. It is not very many years ago, that harvest week was the busiest week of the year for Orange county farmers and good or bad weather during that week made a great deal of difference to the farmer. Now, on nearly every farm, the harvest is got out of the way in a couple of days at most. The use of reapers instead of cradles has very much lessened the work of harvesting, but the principal reason why gathering the harvest is less of a "chore" than it used to be is because there is so much less harvest to gather. I am told by intelligent farmers that the acreage devoted to grain culture in this county, is less than half what it was twenty-five years ago. Then farmers raised corn, oats, wheat and rye for the sake of the grain; now they only put fields under cultivation when the grass has run out so completely that it is necessary to re-seed

One reason for this change in farming methods is pehaps the difficulty of securing farm help or what comes to the same thing, the difficulty of getting money enough together to pay the high wages, which farm hands command. The real reason is, however, that under the present system of milk farming, land is worth more for pasture or hay growing than for grain raising.

It may be worth noting in this connection that Orange county farmers have almost abandoned wheat culture and now sow rye as a seeding crop. The finer grades of winter wheat have never done well in this [illegible], and farmers have cultivated [illegible]diterranean, the Russian Red [illegible], and more recently the Clawson, which, while yielding well, produced a grain from which even the [illegible] of millers could not make a flour from which even the best of bakers could make white bread. This was particularly true of the Clawson wheat, which nearly every farmer adopted a dozen yearsago. Now, the wives of Orange county farmers are just as proud of having white bread as are city housekeepers and they induced their husbands to sell this wheat and buy western flour. With a large share of the Orange county wheat crop on the market,prices went down to a point where rye, the straw of which is always valuable, was the more profitable crop, and thus it is that the rich reddish yellow of the ripening wheat fields is no longer a feature of Orange county scenery as harvest time draws near.

One hot evening last week, a tramp called at a house in this city and asked for something to eat. The lady of the house, who answered his knock, gave him some supper, and, as he seemed to be making rather choky work of getting away with the bread and butter, asked him if he would not like a cup of tea. The tramp assented, and as the lady took the tea pot from the kitchen stove, she discovered that the fire having been out some time the tea was almost cold. Her housewifely instinct led her to apologize for the tepid tea, but she was not prepared for the answer which the knight of the road made, with a bow intended to be courtly: "Don't apologize for the tea not being hot, Madame; it's about the time for iced tea."

BABY'S LIFE IN THE BALANCE.

The Simple Preventive of Cholera Infantum That is Worth More Than All the Medicine in the World—Lactated Food.

Now infant lives tremble in the balance. Heat, and food that fails to nourish, cause cholera and the exhausting diarrhoea that carries off so many babies in July and August. Other deaths shrink to insignificance at this season beside the fearful returns of infant mortality under 5 years.

Where mother's milk is defective or insufficient in nourishing quality, lactated food best supplies the need; for lactated food most closely resembles mother's milk. The basis is sugar of milk in both cases.

Whenever baby's weight fails to show a steady increase the nutrition is for some reason imperfect. Lactated food at these times should be used either altogether or to supplement the natural milk. In all such cases there results a rapid gain in weight and indications on every hand of a healthier, livelier, more hearty existence.

The efficacy and nutritive quality of lactated food is to-day acknowledged by every one.

As a preventive of cholera infantum it is worth more than all the medicines in the world?

As a strength giver to growing infants nothing can compare with it. As a food that is easy to procure and prepare, and is liked by the little ones themselves, too much cannot be said for it.

It has saved the lives of thousands of infants within the last few years. It has been the food of hundreds of babies who have never been sick. Above is the picture of the one-year-old child of Mrs. Edward Newcom, of Logansport, Ind., which was received the other day, accompanied by the following letter from Mrs. Newcom:

"Our baby had to use artificial food on account of no nurse. We tried several different kinds of infant foods, but none agreed with him until we commenced the use of lactated food. Now he is perfectly healthy. We are still using the food and recommend it to all our friends."

This is the experience of hundreds of mothers in this vicinity and will be the experience of hundreds more.

DANGER IN THE SLAUGHTER HOUSE.

Need of Supervision by the Board of Health and the Inspection of Every Animal Killed.

Middletown has a Board of Health, but it is seldom heard from except when the bills of the Health Officer, Sanitary Inspector and Register of Vital Statistics are audited, and when the appointments are made each year. But there is work for a Board of Health in a city of the size of Middletown all the same and it should have some other excuse for existence than the apportionment among its members of the three offices that draw pay from the city treasury.

One of the first things the Board should do is to take supervision of the slaughter house in the north end of the city where the butchers, who kill and dress calves, lambs and cattle do their slaughtering, and have a competent person to inspect each carcass dressed for market and have a card attached to each one that is fit to place on sale, and condemn all that are not and see that they find their way to the fertilizer factory.

In these days when it is known that there is a prevalence of tuberculosis among cattle, and bob veals are abundant, it is important that no tuberculous beef or immature veal is allowed to be sold and only vigilance on the part of the Board of Health can prevent it.

These thoughts were suggested by a discovery made by Dr. Sutcliffe at the slaughter house, yesterday. He was passing and seeing that some one was at work inside stopped and took a look at the carcasses of two cows that a Middletown butcher was dressing.

One of these he found to be so thoroughly diseased that the eye of an expert was not needed to detect it. The tubercles filled every part of the animal's body and there were enough of them to have imparted the germs of consumption to half the inhabitants of Middletown if the meat had been properly distributed.

It is to the credit of the butcher that when the condition of the beef was pointed out to him he declared he would not offer it for sale, but would send it to the fertilizer factory. Of course the Board of Health does not know and neither do the people of Middletown, whether the butcher kept his promise to Dr. Sutcliffe, or whether the tuberculous meat is being served up to his customers, to-day.

However, it is the duty of the Board to look into this matter and not only see that all carcasses dressed at the public slaughter house are inspected, but all dressed meat brought into town by farmers, and they should either do it or resign in favor of men who will do it.

Thousands of new patrons have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla this season and realized its benefit in blood purified and strength restored.

THE SHOOTING OF ROY SLOAT.

Criminal Carelessness the Cause—The Ball Came from the Shooting Gallery—The Lives of Thousands of People Jeopardized—The Boy's Condition Not Improved.

The shooting of Roy Sloat at Harlem Park, on Wednesday, is attributable wholly to criminal carelessness, and it seems almost miraculous that many others were not struck by the flying bullets.

A gentleman, who was near the boy when he fell and assisted him to the electric car, went back to make observations and found that the lad was standing at the time directly in line with the shooting gallery inside the park. The gallery consisted only of a tree with a small target upon it, and many persons, who fired at the target missed the tree altogether and it is surprising that of the hundreds of people outside the fence, but one was shot. One man, however, had a very narrow escape, as a ball whizzed so close to his face that he distinctly felt the wind from it.

After making this observations and satisfying himself that the ball that struck Roy came from the shooting gallery the gentleman above alluded to, went inside and said to the man in charge: "Do you know you just shot a boy over there (pointing to the crowd outside the grounds) and that there are hundreds of men, women and children in danger of being killed?"

The answer he received was: "They have no business there."

The gentleman advised the man to stop the shooting but he did not do so until several others had remonstrated with him.

It is also reported that another gentleman went to one of the managers of the celebration and reported the shooting of the boy but received a very uncivil answer for his pains.

The boy's father, Mr. J. W. Sloat, says he will prosecute the proprietors of the park.

The condition of the injured boy is about the same as yesterday. The physicians have not yet found the ball and as it is believed to be in the knee joint they hesitate about doing much probing.

ACCUSED OF PENSION FRAUDS.

J. C. Hansee Convicted on One Charge*—Seven Other Indictments Against Him.

J. C. Hansee, an old pension agent of Hoboken, N. J., and Ellenville, N. Y., was convicted at Trenton, Monday, of overcharging Mary Raven $10 for obtaining her pension. The jury recommended him to the mercy of the court.

On a second indictment, charging Hansee with taking an illegal fee from Mary Smart, the government failed to make out a case and the jury was instructed to acquit him.

There are two more indictments charging Hansee with exacting illegal fees, and five charging him with filing false affidavits in the Pension Department. These will be tried next week.

A WARWICK MAN DROPS DEAD.

Heart Disease Undoubtedly the Cause.

A man named William Crum, a charcoal burner, who lived on the mountain near Warwick, dropped dead this morning.

Coroner Decker was notified and was also informed by Dr. Cummings that he had treated Crum for heart disease and that death was undoubtedly due to that disease.

The Coroner decided that an inquest was unnecessary and authorized Dr. Cummings to issue a death certificate.

Slawson Brothers, Milk Dealers, 226 E. 46th St.

Drs. Jones and Potter, 839 Broadway:

DEAR SIRS: You can imagine my great satisfaction in being so completely cured of my rupture after suffering with it for thirty-eight years. I have been examined by many eminent doctors and had their trusses adjusted, but grew worse every year. By chance I came into your care, and am now a sound man. I feel truly grateful to you, and cheerfully recommend your treatment.

D. S SLAWSON.

Dr. Potter, of the above firm, is at the Russell House, Middletown, every Thursday.
